Overview

Fudan University International Winter Session is a three-week English-taught study program held annually during the winter season. Designed for college students from around the globe, the program aims to foster multicultural understanding, global perspectives, and meaningful connections among participants. Students will have the unique opportunity to explore China's rich culture and become an integral part of the vibrant Fudan community.

The program offers a diverse range of courses covering topics such as Artificial Intelligence, Business and Economics, Science and Technology, Society and Politics, etc.

In addition to academic courses, students will participate in a variety of extracurricular and social activities, including city tours, company visits, and cultural events. These activities are designed to provide an immersive experience of Chinese culture, showcase the dynamic city of Shanghai, and facilitate networking among talented participants from both China and abroad.

Upon successful completion of the program, students will receive an official program certificate and an official transcript from Fudan University, recognizing their academic achievements.
